Few Mishaps In Salem
Area As Sleet Covers Streets

Rain and sleet during the night and early this morning coated highways through Salem as well as Columbiana and neighboring counties with a glare of ice, causing many accidents and bringing traffic almost to a standstill.

The most serious accident was at East Liverpool at 6:15 a. m. today when a crowded street car got out of control on Bradshaw ave. hill and left the rails at Walnut st., where the tracks make a right-angle turn to go to the "Diamond" downtown.

Twenty persons, mostly pottery workers, were injured. Ambulances rushed them to East Liverpool City hospital. Thirty persons were on the car.

Thrown From Seats
Leaving the rails, the street car brushed a parked auto and a telephone pole and came to a stop in a parking lot. The car remained upright, but many passengers were thrown from their seats.

Mrs. Chris Smith, 62, the most seriously injured, suffered numerous lacerations and from shock. Others badly injured are George Chadwick, second vice president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters; Motorman Charles Dietz; Mrs. Ben Scott and C. C. Dyke. All are suffering from possible broken bones, shock and lacerations.

Fifteen others were treated at the hospital and discharged. Mary Nichols, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nichols of 152 Brooklyn ave., suffered minor bruising when she walked in front of an automobile driven by Miss Nora Fink of 156 Ohio ave., on Cleveland st., at the rear of McKinley school, at 12:45 p. m. Tuesday.

Hit By Bumper
The child, a fourth grade pupil at the school, was knocked down by the front bumper. Miss Fink had slowed down while passing the school, police reported.

No one reported injured when a car was operated by Miss Garmela Letz of R. D. 3, Salem, and S. J. Saxon collided at the intersection of S. Lincoln ave. and E. Pershing st., at 8:15 a. m. today.

Wellsville Work Starts Next Month

WELLSVILLE, Dec. 15—United States Army engineers today advised Mayor Howard L. Kelley that 1,000 WPA workers would be employed for six months on the construction of a $250,000 Ohio river flood wall here, beginning early in January.

Army engineers will supervise the project, which will be completed about July 1.

The city will immediately acquire right-of-way for the 5,400-foot wall, high enough to withstand a 55-foot stage in the river which reached a crest of 51.05 in the 1936 flood here. That flood caused $500,000 damage here.

MID-WEST HELD IN GRIP OF ICE

Traffic Held at Creeping Pace; Accidents Are Numerous

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—A glaze of thin wet ice coated most of the middle west today, holding highway and rail traffic to a creeping pace and causing numerous accidents.

Rain continued to fall at freezing temperatures throughout much of the area and the government weather forecast here said no immediate change was in sight.

Motoring was hazardous on highways from Fond Du Lac, Wis., south to Centralia, Ill., east to Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Bay City, Mich., and west to Des Moines, Ia., the Chicago motor club stated.

The club said road conditions were not expected to improve until the mercury climbed above the freezing point.

PATROL FORCE IS INCREASED

Student Patrolman David Weissert
Of Zanesville Assigned To Barracks

The force of the state highway patrol barracks here was augmented today with the addition of a student patrolman, bringing to four the number of officers stationed here.

David Weissert of Zanesville, the student patrolman, was sent here to fill the vacancy caused more than a month ago by the resignation of Patrolman R. I. Governor.

Corp. W. E. Arey is in charge of the Salem patrol now, having succeeded Corp. F. S. Van Allen, who was transferred to Massillon. Other officers here are R. M. Perry and C. W. Cale. The latter came here a week ago from Mansfield.

Mrs. Pauline, At 74, Comes To America

For two years, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Krauss of 355 West Pershing st., have been trying to persuade Mrs. Krauss' mother to leave her native Transylvania and live in Salem.

Their efforts were rewarded today when Mrs. Rosina Pauline, 74, arrived in Salem after a long journey from Hermannstadt, Transylvania. She will make her home with Mrs. Krauss. A son, Martin Pauline, also lives in Salem.

Mrs. Pauline made the trip alone, traveling across the Atlantic ocean on the liner Europa and arriving in New York yesterday.

Except for one previous trip to Salem, Mrs. Pauline has spent her entire life in Deutsch-Plan, a village near Hermannstadt. Her first journey to this country was made 25 years ago.

Bombing Survivor Points Out Planes Flew Low and Visibility Was Excellent

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Writer
SHANGHAI, Dec. 15.—Jim Marshall, Collier's magazine far eastern correspondent and survivor of the Panay bombing, said today the Panay opened fire on the attacking Japanese planes when bombs started dropping and "kept her guns blazing until the last minute."

Marshall arrived in Shanghai by airplane today from Wuhu, Yangtze river port to which he had made his way after the attack which destroyed the Panay and damaged three Standard Oil company ships Sunday.

"The Japanese planes dropped 12 bombs around the Panay and the Standard Oil vessels," the writer related.

"They came so low it was impossible for them not to know the Panay was a foreign ship."

"The visibility was excellent."

JAPAN GOES FAR TO MAKE AMENDS

Proposes Salute to Flag
And Military Honors
For Victims

(By Associated Press)
TOKYO, Dec. 15.—Japan, already having apologized and offered indemnity for war-like attacks on the United States gunboat Panay and three American-owned steamers, was prepared today to go "even further" to meet the diplomatic emergency, government officials said.

As an additional gesture of regret, it was said, a national salute to the American flag and military honors for the Americans killed Sunday in the Yangtze river incident were under consideration.

The general public was deeply concerned, although the Japanese language press published little concerning sentiment in Washington or the United States and refrained from editorial comment.

The newspapers, however, did print a long statement of the Imperial Headquarters, the highest Japanese military and naval organ, in which it was charged that three gunboats among the several vessels attacked by naval forces fired on the Japanese warplanes when the Panay was sunk.

The headquarters statement declared that the Japanese airmen had reported the vessels "carried no flags" and that "many soldiers" apparently Chinese, were sighted aboard them.

The press also carried Foreign Minister Koki Hirota's note to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in which Japan tendered "sincere apologies, promised 'indemnifications for all losses' and to 'deal appropriately with those responsible for the incident' and announced 'strict orders' had been issued to prevent a recurrence of the incident."

A foreign office spokesman, saying that "nobody is qualified to say anything about the emperor," declined to confirm or deny a report that Hirota would grant an audience to the foreign minister for presentation of a memorandum from President Roosevelt.

Cold Spell Costs County About $1,500

LISBON, Dec. 15.—The current cold spell has cost the county about $1,500 in making highways safe for automobile traffic, County Engineer Robert Wheatley stated Tuesday.

Fifty tons of ashes were dumped on county roads after six motorized plows had cleared away the snow last week. The work does not include expenditures of the state highway department in clearing state routes in the county.

Approximately 31,000 feet of snow fence have been erected. The fence has been placed at spots where drifts are most likely to occur and represents an increase of 20,000 feet in this type of highway protection.

About 8,000 feet of additional fencing will be installed this winter.

GRANGERS HIT REGIMENTATION

Want Compulsion Clause
Stricken From Senate Farm Bill

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Dec. 15.—The Ohio State senate today voted to strike a resolution demanding elimination from the pending senate farm bill of "all features that would lead to direct compulsion, regulation, or regimentation of the farmer."

Meanwhile the 1,000 delegates to the grange's 65th annual session turned to a series of committee reports along with regular business meetings and election of an executive committee member.

The resolution went to Ohio's senators, Robert J. Bulkley and Vic Donahay, Senator Edward Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the senate agricultural committee, and Representative Marvin Jones of Texas, chairman of the house committee.

Other resolutions adopted late yesterday favored continuation of a sound soil conservation program under farmer control and asked for larger exemptions and protection for the family-sized farm. All were adopted unanimously.

State Grange Master Walter F. Kirk of Port Clinton, commending Gov. Martin L. Davey for his stand on sit-down strikes, said in his annual message yesterday afternoon that "no individual or group should be permitted to seize or hold private property without due process of law."

The farmer, Kirk said, "is more interested in equal opportunity than in unearned reward or subsidy payments despite their convenience at tax-paying time."

L. J. Taber of Columbus, national grange master, will address the meeting tonight.

Officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the Brotherhood of the Holy Trinity English Lutheran church at the home of J. A. Fehr last night.

Leonard Echols was named president. Other new officers are: Vice president, J. A. Fehr; recording secretary, C. W. Youtz; corresponding secretary, J. Elmer Johnson; treasurer, John Balan.

Plans for the Brotherhood's participation in the "White Gifts for the King" Christmas program were discussed. Members of the organization decided to donate articles for the Iron Mountain Boys school in Virginia as their part in the program.

Refreshments were served by the host.

Recruits Sought For School Ranks

LISBON, Dec. 15.—Co-operation of school superintendents, principals and personnel officers is requested by E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, in securing well trained personnel for Ohio schools.

In a letter received Tuesday by County School Superintendent W. E. Roberts, Dietrich states the problem of selecting superior recruits for the teaching profession is causing him much concern. With the assistance of school officials he believes many students may be induced to follow teaching as a career.

Roberts was requested, in his capacity as guidance counselor, to survey junior and senior classes in the high schools under his jurisdiction, suggesting to qualified pupils that they enter the profession. Intelligence and traits essential to successful teaching were stressed as guides in the survey.

Dietrich also recommended that qualified students should be permitted to assist competent teachers.

Aged Couple's Furniture,
Personal Belongings
Are Lost

An ailing woman was carried to safety, dressed only in her nightgown, when fire destroyed a small house on the Pidgeon road, three houses west of the Lisbon road intersection, this morning.

The home, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sommers, was burned to the ground. The aged couple were unable to save any of their belongings. He is 81 years old and she is 75.

Daughter Smells Smoke

The blaze was discovered while Sommers and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Allison, were in the kitchen eating breakfast. When the daughter said she smelled smoke, Sommers went outside and saw smoke and flames shooting out of the top of the house.

Running back inside, he attempted to look into the attic through a trap door. His hair was singed.

Shortly afterwards the flames broke through the ceiling and Sommers and Milo Adams, 23, a neighbor, who rushed into the house, lifted Mrs. Sommers from her bed and carried her outside.

Only Chimney Is Left

A neighbor called firemen at 9:20 a. m., but they were helpless to do anything because already the walls and roof of the house were crumbling. Only the chimney was left standing.

A barn at the rear of the house was out of the reach of the flames. There were no other buildings nearby.

The Sommers' lost everything when their home burned, including furniture as well as clothing. He had to borrow at hat and coat from a neighbor after being forced from his home. All Mrs. Sommers had left in the way of clothes was the nightgown she wore at the time.

A SALVO OF APOLOGIES

Some things about the undeclared war between China and Japan aren't plain. Why, Americans wonder, does Japan insult them? Why does Japan insult the British?

Both feel this is like hitting a boxing champion on the nose to show him what a dandy left hook his pupil has developed. If Japan must demonstrate its strength, say Americans and Englishmen as they read about attacks on their citizens and property, it would be healthier to pick out safer targets than the champion's nose.

That's because Americans and Englishmen think of themselves as champions. Perhaps they're right, but they're overlooking a fine point of distinction, which is that their championships no longer are recognized in Japan's sphere of influence.

Japan knows this is true, but Americans and Englishmen still are learning about it. They would have to be dull indeed not to get the point by this time that when Japan follows up its bombs and shells with a salvo of apologies it is not being apologetic but merely polite.

Thus, Japan apologizes for destruction of the American gunboat Panay, but what it really is saying is that its diplomats are sorry the militarists found the boat was in their way and that next time they hope there won't be any American boats in the way, or British boats, either.

The English speaking nations aren't champions in Chinese territory any longer. They've lost their titles and their popularity. The Chinese have been made to see that the Japanese can insult white men with impunity, and that marks the end of white supremacy in Asia.

Popular reaction to the Panay incident shows how little inclination there is to try to regain that supremacy. The Panay incident and others indicate plainly the days of almost unrestricted occidental exploitation of the orient are over—ended in a salvo of Japanese apologies for doing this and for doing that to ruin the white man's prestige—so very sorry for everything, but the white man must understand and please close the open door after him on his way out, thank you very much.

AN INEXACT SCIENCE

It is unbelievable that a well endowed economics research foundation could not add something to the world's meager knowledge of the forces which govern its existence. Alfred P. Sloan's $10,000,000 donation to establish such a foundation is well spent.

A wider knowledge of economic truths is to be the foundation's principal objective. That is an interesting detail of the prospectus. Economic truths are absolute only viewed from a fixed point. Otherwise, they become as changeable as fashions.

Many things Mr. Sloan recognizes as ultimate truth are denied by members of the new deal government which, these days, helps him to run his business.
Likewise, things new dealers say are truth must be denied by Mr. Sloan. That is not due to dishonesty on the part of anyone, but entirely to honest differences of opinion.

So without knowing what the Sloan foundation may be able to do toward making economics an exact science, its intended beneficiaries, the American people, may be sure it never will have the privilege of speaking the last word on any economic issue.
There always will be dissent—and halfway between statement and dissent will be the approximate location of ultimate truth.

RAZZLE-DAZZLE

It's a good thing the Washington Redskins defeated the Chicago Bears to win the professional football title—though not for any reason related to football.

The victory was a triumph for razzle-dazzle, which has been taking a beating recently. Razzle-dazzle economics have fizzled. Razzle-dazzle political methods are being frowned upon. Even razzle-dazzle demagoguery is in a decline.

It helps, therefore, to know razzle-dazzling hasn't faded everywhere. The Redskins beat the Bears with razzle-dazzle because that was the kind of stuff the Bears, who play a moderate game, couldn't match in a game where orthodox football was impossible due to bad weather.

The moral is that razzle-dazzle is great stuff in the right place. Knowing what the right place is continues to be the hard part of the job.

THE STARS SAY

For Thursday, December 16

Very progressive and expansive and solidifying factors figure in this day's activities, judging by the lunar transits. There may be a fine incentive to fulfilled ambitions in a large way, with the cooperation of influential persons or major institutions. Elders also assist in these worthy projects, and there are likely to be advantageous and happy reactions in new friendships or social contacts.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of splendid opportunity for growth, expansion and increased finances, and personal popularity and standing, both in business and social relations. Elders should offer practical co-operation. Speculation is also under good auspices.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, progressive and responsible, although much given to social life, fashionable functions and diversions. Its fondness for splendor and show will not prevent its arrival at a high and respected position.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—Give-away stationery costs
New York hotels a sizeable sum weekly. Especially is this true of the de luxe inns, such as the Waldorf, Ritz, St. Regis and Pierre's, which furnish costly paper extensively embossed. It is polite pilfering, hard to scotch.

Some of the newer hotels have entirely abolished
the writing room, but that does not prevent cadgers from asking for a few sheets from the desk clerks. On the plea they want to drop a note to some friends registered there but out at the moment.

In a like manner there is no way a hotel can refrain from accepting mail from non-patrons. The phonies plead they had expected to put up there, but due to unforeseen circumstances, plans were changed.
Thus do hotels against their will contribute to the build-up of rascals.

Such camouflage is the billiards for the hand-kissing type of pseudo-noblemen who are becoming an increasing social affliction. These are the perfumed pick-thanks who live in the rooming houses but put up the showy fronts of living high, wide and handsome.

Lillian Gish seems also to have joined in the shrink
from the public—in the manner of Garbo, Maud Adams, et al. While never conspicuous, she was often seen at the more important first nights and now and then in the more select restaurants or at an equally select tea. But for the past year she has been seen only in her professional roles on the stage. My seats for openings are usually opposite George Jean Nathan's and now and then he squired Miss Gish.
She sat immobile throughout, a veritable statue in chalk. If they ever exchanged a word of conversation it was in the Edgar Bergen non-lip-moving motif.

But the human enigma of the theatre was the late lamented Percy Hammond. Generally in the second or third row on the middle aisle, he seemed to drowse through entire proceedings, his eyes half closed. There is no record of a chuckle escaping him or of a sly swipe at a misty eye, and never was he seen to take a note. Yet nothing escaped him, and although he left some 20 minutes before the final curtain, his critiques were invariably complete.

Speaking of taking notes, Edwin C. Hill in his re-portorial days, when most of his assignments were interviews with important folk, rarely made a notation. He could talk to his subject for an hour or so and when he got back to the news room quote almost word for word on the typewriter. And in no instance was there ever a comeback. Frank Ward O'Malley was another who seldom made a jotting but was invariably accurate.

In many ways Herbert Bayard Swope, before he became an executive editor, was the outstanding reporter of his time. He, too, was a non-note taker and his most brilliant efforts often concerned stories passed up as impossible. He had that quality known as aggressiveness—plus. And doors locked to others somehow opened for him. His excess of vigour has not been lost in his retirement to a less active life. He does not come into a room; he fairly swoops, recalling the mot of a wag that Swope conjugated was sweep, swope, swope. To see him come breezing down a theatre aisle at a first night is something of a study in zip. It may be why he is so appropriately chairman of the state racing commission.

The Boston got off the reservation again this morning when left alone a short while and when we returned was drooping contritely in a corner, a pastel of dejection. He was given his severest punishment—several moments in a dark closet. And the household determined to ignore him at least until dinner time.
He looked forlorn awhile and then put on his routine for sympathy, sitting up, whimpering and nuzzling his head between his paws while staring one out of countenance. But to no avail. That is, until around 4 p. m., when he came crawling belly-wise and rolled over at the desk, feet up. Being a sofie, he chiseled me out of a nice hunk of ear scratching, and right now he's sound asleep on my lap—so soundly that I have to stop work so he will not be disturbed.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Dr. Copeland

MASTITIS
ANY INFECTION or inflammation of the breast is painful and most annoying. This is a disorder that is not uncommon in nursing mothers, but may occur among women who have never nursed children.

Mastitis is the scientific name
given the condition. It is caused by carelessness in the hygiene of the breast and nipple.
Neglect of a simple infection or a slight irritation
may be followed by an abscess deep in the tissues of the breast.

The trouble frequently results from a blockage of the ducts which carry the milk. This causes the breast to become engorged, swollen, inflamed and extremely painful.

When this happens, nursing becomes difficult, of course, and is not advised. If there is sufficient milk in the breasts, the child may continue to be breast-fed. But if there is an inadequate supply of milk, it is best that weaning be started at once.

Many women fear to consult the doctor when they notice swelling or tenderness of the breast. Undoubtedly this is due to the almost universal but erroneous belief that any swelling or inflammation of the breast is always a sign of cancer.

Not Always Cancer
Many a woman has avoided medical attention for fear she will be advised to have the breast removed.
This is unwise. Indeed, it is foolish to imagine that every swelling of the breast is cancer.

Of course, it is best to remember that any tumor or swelling of the breast demands immediate medical attention. Neglect may be dangerous. To avoid having medical care because you fear you are the victim of some serious disorder is indeed unwise. Like the ostrich who hides his head and believes he is safe, you are merely inviting disaster.

Avoid the application of any form of medication unless it has been advised by your doctor. If pus is present, the use of an ointment may aggravate the condition and permit the infection to spread to other parts of the breast.

Do not delay operation if it is advised. Often a simple little incision will be sufficient to drain the pus and result in immediate recovery. But this can only be hoped for if immediate medical attention is obtained.

"Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XXVIII

Cleaving their way through the good-natured crowd in wedge formation, came a number of newspapermen who had been washed from their positions by the uncontrollable sea of humanity sweeping past guard lines onto the landing field. They clambered over and into the automobiles which by now were making slow and cautious progress through the cheering crowd toward the nearest highway. Questions were hurled at the returned heroes like bombs. Out of their fragmentary replies was woven the story of their remarkable adventure.

Lacy Lee heard it first as did countless other listeners-in, almost as soon as it fell from the lips of the adventurers themselves. "Ladies and gentlemen, we are delighted to bring you the first news of the astounding return to life and civilization of Bruce Loring, noted motion-picture star, and his companion Clyde Dixon."

These two intrepid travelers of the air, as you know, took off from a Los Angeles airport some weeks ago in Mr. Loring's specially designed amphibian plane on its maiden voyage of any length. Their destination was the Mexican state of Durango, a hunter's paradise where big game of various species abounded, from grizzly bear to mountain sheep.

"But off the coast of Lower California Loring's plane ran into an unexpected storm which blew them far off their route and subjected the ship to a terrific atmospheric battering. Engine trouble developed and a forced landing was necessary."

"Darkness obscured their view of the terrain below. Suddenly the ship burst into flames, no doubt from a leaky gasoline line. There was no escape from a fearful death by fire but to abandon the plane and trust their lives to parachutes. Bruce Loring and Clyde Dixon took the perilous leap into the unknown—and after drifting for a considerable time, they landed safely but at widely separated points."

"Loring found himself floating in the Pacific not far from a small island off the shores of Mexico. While Dixon, carried farther along, came down on the far side of the island."

"Loring, being a powerful swimmer, managed to reach the shore, although almost exhausted. It was not until several days later that the two men, each believing himself to be the sole survivor, found one another again—the only human beings upon that rocky and rarely visited island."

"The story of their weeks of isolation and eventual rescue by Mexican fishermen, is a truly startling one. This station has already contracted for the appearance on its program of Clyde Dixon who, beginning tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, will tell the story of his adventures. Continuing each night at the same hour for two weeks, in a fifteen-minute talk giving all details of his life and that of Bruce Loring while marooned on the island and given up for dead by the world. Be sure to tune in on what will be the most startling true-to-life adventure story in the air, and on land and sea, ever released."

"This is Station KJH and your announcer is William Delaney."

As the cars bearing the returned adventurers proceeded from the landing field toward the Beverly Hills home of Bruce Loring, they were followed by hundreds of other automobiles in a parade blocks long and constantly growing longer. Horns tooted deafeningly, passers-by cheered, more machines joined the procession and added the tooting of their horns to the din.

Loring and Dixon, requested to sit on the turned-back tops of their cars as on thrones, smiled and waved in response to the cheering crowds. "Gin at them, Clyde—take your bows. Give, boy, give! See that blonde cutie throwing kisses at you?" Don Ames yelled excitedly. "Boy, is she a whizzy little number!"

"Where?" Clyde turned, searched the sea of faces. "Right there—in the red, white and blue get-up. She looks like a sweetheart of the army and navy both! Give her the business, you big boob!"

Although the mass of staring faces swam indistinctly before his eyes and the blonde cutie was as vague as the rest, Clyde waved and shouted: "Hello!" in the general direction indicated. The crowd roared, and someone threw a small bunch of flowers toward the car. Clyde, on his seat of vantage, caught it expertly and again there was a shout of approval from the mob.

All the rest of the way, flowers were tossed until the two cars were piled with blossoms like triumphal chariots bearing conquering heroes. Several times when traffic jams forced the slowly moving machines to stop at some intersection, pretty girls jumped on the running boards and imprinted hasty kisses on the sun-browned faces of the two men.

"Oh mygosh," Clyde exclaimed in dismay at the first of these encounters, his bronzed skin turning a deep crimson with embarrassment. But after the second girl had thrown her arms about his neck he did not dodge but took her kiss fairly on the mouth, amid wild shouts of approval from the delighted onlookers.

"Attabo, Clyde!" Don't be bashful, Big Boy. "Whoopie!"

"You're learning fast," grinned Ames. "When you get tired of kissing 'em, turn a few over to me. Look at Loring," he chuckled. "They're hanging on him like he was a Christmas tree. And boy, does he kiss 'em! Plenty of footage there, I'll say. When he kisses 'em they stay kissed! Wait, I've got an idea."

The publicity man leaped from the car and dashing forward, jumped on the running board of the Loring machine. Clyde saw him talking earnestly for a few moments to the star, who at first shook his dark, sleek head in denial; then, breaking into a great, boyish laugh, nodded approval. Ames came back, smiling broadly.

Loring turned and shouted something to Clyde who, however, could not catch it because of the bedlam of bellowing horns.

"What did he say?" "He said it was Jake with him. I told him the idea of taking this parade up Hollywood Boulevard from Vine to Highland instead of going straight home. My God, look at it—a million dollar ballyhoo—even a guy like Loring can't get too much publicity. And wow! What a break for you. Did you see all the newsreel boys planted along the line back there at the landing-field?"

"No... were they? Newsreels—" "Sure. The whole world will know your handsome pan by this time tomorrow."

"Good Lord!" Clyde smoothed his hair with a nervous gesture. "What kind of a haircut did they give me down in Agua Caliente? Bruce and I looked like a couple of Tarzans when we landed there. First thing he asked for was a barber and about a thousand dollars worth of ham and eggs."

"What in the name of reducing diets did you two eat on that island of yours?" Ames asked. "You both look kinda thin."

"Clams and fish, mostly. Abalone. Stuff like that."

"No, we cooked 'em. I had a watertight case of matches in my pocket and we kept a fire burning night and day. To cook on—hot stones, you know—and for a signal. That's what finally brought the Mexican fishermen who took us off. They hardly ever land on that island. But they saw the smoke."

Thus in broken snatches, Ames got his first account of the amazing story for which the world waited with breathless interest. A tale which he was destined to present in many forms—over the radio, in magazine articles and through newspaper syndicates. All of course signed and supposedly written by Clyde Dixon.

At last it was over. The escorting machines dropped away until there were comparatively few left to bring the parade to its close at the Loring home, a dignified Monterey-type home on one of the palm-lined avenues of Beverly Hills. Loring shook hands solemnly with his companion in adventure, winking prodigiously with his left eye. The one away from the grinning cameras of the newsreel photographers.

"See you tonight, Old Timer," he said.

They were to meet again that night at the huge official banquet of welcome at the Ambassador, being arranged by the studio executives in honor of their star's spectacular return.

"Where do we go from here?" Clyde asked as he and Don Ames got into their car again. "Look! There's still a bunch of machines following us."

"Let 'em follow, bless their little hearts. It's good, for business. We're going to the hotel. Your headquarters."

"What do you mean, my headquarters?"

"The place where you sign contracts," Ames grinned. "I've got your radio tie-up all arranged and some vaudeville people are waiting to offer you a thousand bucks a week for personal appearances and—"

"Thousand dollars a week!" exclaimed Clyde. "Yeah, but we can boost it to fifteen hundred, easy. Then there are the syndicate articles—your endorsements of everything from clam juice to the kind of garters you like best. Oh, we oughta be able to promote from three to four grand a week out of it without much trouble."

"Say, are you crazy, or am I? Three or four thousand—my eye!"

"You've gotta learn to think in big figures, boy. This is only a starter. We'll probably get fifty to seventy-five grand out of the picture."

"What picture?" "The one you and Bruce Loring are gonna make, of course. You don't suppose those Great Minds in the N. P. N. outfit would miss a chance to cash in on a break like this, do you? They've got about twenty of their crack scenario hounds at work on a story already."

ALTHOUSE FIVE TAKES OPENING CLASS A GAME

Dodgers Play Overtime Period To Defeat Mullins, 24-23

The Class A City Basketball league got off to a flying start at the Memorial building gym last night as Althouse Dodgers, defending champion of the league, and the Mullins recorded victories in hotly-contested opening games.

The Dodgers were extended into an overtime period before gaining a 24 to 23 win over Mullins. The Columbians chalked up a 29 to 19 triumph over the Moose.

Coming from behind in the final quarter, the Dodgers tied the score at 22-22 and then went on to win in the overtime frame.

The Bodyguards held the lead throughout the first three periods. They were out in front, 12 to 5, at the end of the first quarter, 16 to 7 at halftime and 17 to 14 at the close of the third period.

Earl Zelle of the Dodgers led the scoring in the contest with 10 points, made on five field goals. Schaffer and Linder shared scoring honors for Mullins with six points apiece.

The Columbians staged a last-quarter spurt to gain their victory over the Moose, who gave stubborn battle throughout the contest.

The Columbians trailed 5 to 3 at the end of the first quarter, but pulled out in front 14 to 13 at halftime. At the end of the third period, the Columbians led 19 to 16.

The Moose faltered in the final stanza and scored only three points while the Columbians were hooping 10 to 5 up the victory.

Two Class B league games were also played at the building last night with Krauss' Heels and the Columbians winning out in these games.

The Heels defeated the Methodists, defending champion in Class B, 32 to 22, while the Columbians spanked Reich's Trojans, 21 to 14.

Townsend Upholds Use Of New Type Basketball In Ohio Scholastic Games; Says Resiliency Is Test

Basketball players at Salem and other high schools might as well accustom themselves right here and now to use of the new molded or seamless ball which is making numerous appearances in early season games.

Complaints that the new ball is harder to handle and shoot than the old one have been heard locally, but there's nothing much that can be done to satisfy the complainants.

In a letter to the sports department of The Salem News, H. R. Townsend of Columbus, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, governing body for 1,147 schools, says that the new ball may be used by members of the association.

YANKS RANKED LEADING TEAM OF PAST YEAR

Baseball Champions Top List In Associated Press Poll

(NOTE: This is the third of a series analyzing the Associated Press annual sports poll. It covers replies to the query on the year's outstanding teams.)

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Recognition as the years' outstanding team, on land or water, goes to the World Champion New York Yankees by an overwhelming vote of the nation's leading sports experts.

The rulers of professional baseball top the list, covering all sports, for the second successive year and the third time in the seven-year history of the annual Associated Press poll.

The Yankees were collectively put at the head of the 1937 class by 42 of 50 newspaper experts who signified their three performances for team honors. On points, tabulated 3-2-1, Gehrig, DiMaggio and company more than doubled the score of their nearest rival, Pittsburgh's football team which rated tops in the collegiate world.

The margin was 138 to 62, with only two experts putting the Panthers in the No. 1 spot.

Although America's recapture of the Davis cup in tennis was pretty much a one-man show, featuring Don Budge, the year's No. 1 individual athlete, the United States team collected enough support to beat out Washington's all-conquering varsity crew for third place in the poll, 31 points to 32.

The husky oarsmen from Seattle rated fourth for the second straight year. They swept the Poughkeepsie regatta in record-smashing fashion, to compile the most amazing year's streak in collegiate rowing history.

A total of 21 teams or crews, in nine separate sports, gained mention, including the Collegiate football All-Stars, who beat the Green Bay Packers at Chicago, and the Scandinavian sailors who did a masterful job aboard Ranger in Harold S. Vanderbilt's successful defense of the America's cup.

Minnesota's footballers, 1936 runners-up, received one vote for first place in this year's poll.

ABOLISH COAST LINKS TOURNEY
Los Angeles Open Event Abandoned For Lack Of Sponsor

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—The $8,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament was abandoned today, threatened collapse of the entire California winter links program.

The sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce called off the Los Angeles Open, announcing it could find no angel to underwrite it.

Anyhow, it added, "we have come to the conclusion that the Los Angeles Open has perhaps filled its purpose as a tool to establish Southern California as a winter sports center, and particularly a golf mecca."

The tourney here, scheduled Jan. 7 to 10, offered the coast's biggest golf attraction. Five other tournaments were scheduled in January and February.

But sponsors indicated they might cancel all of them because of the abandonment here.

Spokesmen indicated the Pasadena and Oakland opens would be called off unless the Los Angeles tourney is revived.

"If the Los Angeles open is not held, not 2 per cent of the eastern pros will come to California this winter," predicted Charles Lacey, Hillcrest Country Club pro.

Other California tournaments scheduled were Bing Crosby's second annual Del Mar meet Jan. 15-16 for $3,000; the Pasadena Open Jan. 21-23 for $3,000; Oakland's $5,000 meet Jan. 28-30; Sacramento's $3,000 tourney Feb. 4-6 and the San Francisco Open Feb. 11-13 for $5,000.

Each year the nation's leading professionals head west but of late years galleries fell off and tournament backers found themselves in precarious spots.

The Los Angeles Open would have been the thirteenth. Officials called it a "jinx year."

Asked whether the O. H. S. A. A. planned to make one ball or the other official for Ohio scholastic use, Townsend replied:

"This association does not make any legal adoption of athletic supplies, balls, etc. As long as a ball is approved by the National Basketball Rules committee, it may be used by our members in legal games."

Although some observers believe that use of the new type sphere in tournament competition would be unfair to some teams, Townsend states that the board of control of the association has decided that the molded basketball will be used in Ohio scholastic tournaments next March.

The opinion of many basketball followers is that a team that has been using the old ball in its regular season games would be under an unfair handicap if required to use the new ball in tournament play against a team which has played with the molded ball all season.

Salem is one of the schools which will not use the new ball in its home games. The Quakers, however, may have to play with the new ball several times in out-of-town games since it is the choice of the home team which ball will be used.

In case the Quakers do go through the season using the old ball with seams, they will undoubtedly be under a handicap in attempting to use the new ball in tournament competition on a strange floor.

Explaining that last season, two seamless and two old-type balls were used in the state finals of the tournament, Townsend said that this season's finals will be two late, one seamless and one molded.

The difference between the three balls is that the late type has seams and laces; the seamless type has no seams and no laces; and the molded type has no seams and no laces.

It appears that this situation, too, would create difficulties in tournament play. For example: A team might be called on to use the late type ball in one tournament game and the molded ball in their following contest.

While local players who have used the new molded ball claim that it is inclined to float and curve while being shot and takes more spin off the backboard, Townsend declares that "the test this year, as provided by the basketball rules, is based entirely on resiliency."

The point apparently brought out in this statement is that the rules do not cover testing the ball for floating, spinning or other fallacies but merely test it for its bounce.

Pin blasting at the Masonic temple alleys reached a new high for the season last night as three records were shattered in the Class A National league.

By far the outstanding performance was turned in by Jess Hays of the Salem News, who rolled a 279 single game, only one strike short of a perfect mark of 300.

Hays chalked up seven straight strikes before what appeared to be a perfect pocket hit in the eighth frame left the No. 1 pin standing. He picked this up for a spare and marked strikes the remainder of the way out for a 279 and a new high single game score.

Hays also set a new three-game record by combining his 279 with other games of 190 and 172 for a 650 total.

Andrew Dixon, Merle White and George Early hit over the 600 mark to pace Bunn's Shoes to a new three-game record for Class A teams. The Shoemakers totaled 2976 on games of 1024, 1000 and 952. Dixon had 624, White, 611, and Early, 614.

The Colonial Billiards fell from first place in the City Duckpin league at the Grate Recreation alleys last night after losing three games to Bliss. Pottery No. 1 moved into the top position on the strength of three wins over Demings.

A Salem All-Star duckpin team defeated a Sallineville team, 2034 to 1845, in a special match at the Grate alleys last night.

The rules declare (Sec. 1, Rule 4) that balls used in games must rebound at least four feet and not more than four feet, seven inches when dropped from a height of six feet.

To prevent the molded ball from bouncing above the set amount, less air pressure is carried in it than in the old type ball. This results naturally in the molded ball being lighter than the old one which carried about 13 pounds of pressure.

The one strong point in favor of the new ball is that it will keep its shape and last longer than the old ball, because it has no seams to break open or spread after hard usage.

RULES CHANGES TO BE MADE IN HARNESS SPORT

Four Important Alterations Loom for Trotting and Pacing

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, Dec. 15.—America's three horse trotting and pacing parent associations, the United American and National, moved forward on a country-wide front today toward four important changes in 1938 harness racing rules, cementing further the 1935 New York "peace pact" at which they adopted uniform rules and classifications.

The joint rules committee of the Trotting Horse Club of America, agreed yesterday at its biennial session to:

Discard the "money-won" system of classification, and set up a combination "win-race" time and "money-won" plan of rating horses;

Eliminate separate registrations with each of the three bodies, thus throwing the track in the country open without extra fees to any horse registered with any of the three;

Demand registration of all trotters and pacers with the American Trotting Register association, before permitting the horse to race; Urge wide-spread use of the new "parade" starting system, especially on the half-mile tracks where it has been sidetracked in favor of the older "sidetrack" plan.

Each of the suggested changes must receive the approval of the separate organizations before becoming effective, but the recommendation of the rules committee generally has been accepted in the past.

E. Roland Harriman of New York, president of the Trotting Horse Club of America, who presided at the meeting, said:

"The action taken here has provided another long step forward for harness racing. The sport has been gaining steadily, and we look for one of our greatest seasons next year. Never have three parent bodies worked together as these three are doing. The result is practically the same as if we had one parent group, with branches in the several centers of racing."

The National governing harness racing from Pennsylvania east, the United rules in Ohio and portions of surrounding states, while the American extends from western Indiana to the west coast.

In approving the single registration plan, the rules committee sanctioned an idea for which Mrs. Don A. Detrick of Bellefontaine, O., secretary of the United and the only woman member of the rules committee had fought for years.

The cost of registration was boosted from $1 for a single registration to $3 for a single registration permit, but horsemen registering horses after June 1 will benefit. In former years the fee was doubled after that date, but no penalties are provided in the new setup.

A committee was named to study the proposed classification table changes and submit its findings at an early date, so that the new system might be installed for the 1938 campaign.

Representatives at the joint session were: National Trotting association—Judge Reese Blizard, president, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Roger Duncan, secretary, Hartford, Conn. American Trotting association—C. H. Perry, assistant secretary, Chicago, Ill.

United Trotting association—T. A. Billingsley, president, Greenville, O.; Mrs. Don A. Detrick, secretary - treasurer, Bellefontaine, O.

Trotting Horse Club of America—E. Roland Harriman, president, New York City; Will Gahagan, secretary, Goshen, N. Y.; W. H. Cane, Hackensack, N. J. and C. W. Phellis, New York City.

COACH CLAIMS CAGE CHANGES HARM TO GAME

N. Dame Mentor says Too Many New Rules Make Game Difficult

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 15.—George E. Keogan, whose 14-year basketball coaching record of 773 at the University of Notre Dame lends considerable weight to his words, declared today, "rule changes of the last five years have hurt the game."

"There have been too many changes in the first place," he said in an interview. "Basketball will never become stabilized with uniform officiating and uniform interpretation of the rules unless the rules are left alone long enough for all sections to level off on interpretations."

Keogan is a University of Minnesota graduate who gave up pulling teeth to drill young athletes on the fine points of the "hoop and hardwood" sport. His all-time record up to the present season—including service at Valparaiso, Allegheny college, Central High school of LaCrosse, Wis., and St. Thomas of St. Paul—shows 347 victories, 78 defeats and a tie, for an .816 percentage.

Keogan is convinced the new rule eliminating the center jump penalizes "the good" teams, since they "are forced to give up the ball after they have scored."

"Supposing the stronger of two teams is a little off in its basket-shooting early in a game," he suggested. "Under the old rule it might, by its aggressiveness, control the ball the majority of the game and still win. But if it is missing shots, losing an even percentage of the rebounds and losing the ball after making its shots, it may easily lose to an inferior team. Or a close game may be settled in the final minutes more on the new rule than on the skill of winning team."

"The rule helps weaker teams. It will result in closer scores and in more upsets."

Former Akron St. Vincent Cager Sets Scoring Mark

Chuck Chuckovits Tallies 41 Points Against Adrian To Establish New World Record

(By Associated Press)
Charles (Chuck) Chuckovits, brilliant Toledo university forward who holds the Ohio All-time collegiate scoring honors for one season, bid today for national inter-collegiate single game laurels after looping 41 points against Adrian (Mich.) college.

The 21-year-old junior paced his teammates to a top-sided 41 to 18 victory over the Michigan quintet here last night. The Rockets entered a 36 to 4 half-time advantage.

Chuckovits, who graduated from Akron St. Vincent's High school in 1933, caged 17 field goals and 7 free throws to eclipse the 34-point total amassed by Leroy Edwards, of Kentucky university, against Creighton university in 1935.

The flashy Rocket forward bagged 352 points in 22 conference and non-conference tilts last season to establish an all-time Ohio high. Nick Frascella, of Wooster college, held the previous Buckeye state mark of 295 points—his aggregate for the 1935-1936 campaign.

Chuckovits, a six-footer weighing 170 pounds, helped Cook academy of Montour Falls, N. Y., to score 18 straight victories prior to enrolling in 1935 at Toledo.

Bowling Green university, in its initial Ohio conference battle, defeated Ohio Northern 50 to 42 at Bowling Green. The invaders were behind, 15 to 27, at half-time but staged a spirited last period rally.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

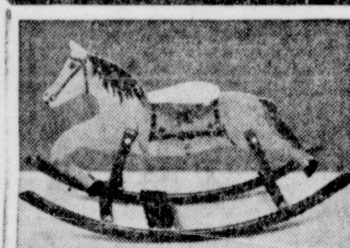

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 5c.
